JEALOUS LOVER IS JAILED AFTER MILK SHAKE BAR RAMPAGE

Report by Lynda Roughley

A JEALOUS lover from Skelmersdale who left three people injured after running riot in a milk shake bar has been put behind bars.

The incident began after Richard Shacklady saw his former partner, Natalie Stewart, working in the premises.

During the trial the judge also criticised her previous behaviour which precipitated the violence.

Shacklady burst into the Smoooch milk bar cafe in Hoghton Street, Southport and jumped on the counter "shouting nonsense" before attacking the owner's elderly parents.

Then while repeatedly hitting the front window with a heavy metal stool Shacklady also caught Miss Stewart - who was going out with couple's son, Matthew - with it causing a cut to her head.

Jailing him for 20 months on Monday (June 10), Judge Brian Cummings, QC, described it as "a shocking incident."

He said that the graphic CCTV footage of the incident, "shows an incident of explosive violence. You started by attacking an elderly man and then assaulted his wife."

The judge pointed out that the couple both had pre-existing health conditions aggravated by the injuries they suffered at his hands and they have also suffered psychologically.

Miss Stewart has since resumed her relationship with Shacklady and sent the judge a "strongly supportive letter" for him.

● Above: Richard Shacklady.
● Right: The smashed window at the milk shake bar following the incident.

"She indicates she told you unspecified lies before the incident 'to get a rise out of you', and that, I'm afraid, was irresponsible to say the least," said Judge Cummings.

28-year-old Shacklady, of Thurston, Skelmersdale, pleaded guilty to wounding on the basis of recklessness, two common assaults and criminal damage.

Philip Hall, prosecuting, told Liverpool Crown Court that the incident happened on April 4 this year while 74-year-old Peter Dunn was working behind the counter at the premises with his wife, Pamela.

When Shacklady jumped onto the counter Mr Dunn asked him to leave but he refused and while "standing over him rained down a number of blows to his head and slammed it into the counter."

His 65-year-old wife tried to stop it by getting in between them but he struck her in the face with

10-year-old tackles sponsored run for young carers charity

A BIG-hearted youngster from Skelmersdale took precious time out from caring for his wheelchair-bound mum to complete the 1k Spring Run in Liverpool to raise money for the Barnado's Young Carers charity.

Ten-year-old Kieran Whitehead looks after his mum Nikki Whitehead who suffers from a variety of health conditions that have left her confined to a wheelchair for five years.

Kieran with the certificates he was presented with for taking part in the run.

Nikki said: "I am really proud of Kieran and he's really proud of himself for doing this. He hopes to raise more money in the future because he understands that some children are not fortunate enough to have the help from other carers/personal assistants and family members so this was really important to him.

"I'd like to say a massive thank-you to everyone who sponsored him and sent him words of encouragement and praise."

Kieran is a pupil at Moorside County Primary Academy and Nikki added that, the headteacher, Mr Davis has been a huge support to him over the years, alongside Mrs Mac.

To date, Kieran who has also been awarded a Young Citizen of the Year 2017 Lancashire Police High Sheriff commendation and a Junior Life Saver award from the North West Ambulance Service last year, has raised about £185.

Meanwhile Kieran's justgiving page is still open at www.justgiving.com/KieranW for anyone who would like to make a donation.

MP tells CCG improving its service will reduce complaints!

Report by Kenny Parker

ROSIE Cooper has told the West Lancs Clinical Commissioning Group it needs to improve its performance after reports issued to its governing body claimed that the number of complaints from the MP's office was a "strain" on the service.

Ms Cooper was speaking out following a report which stated that in the third quarter (October to December 2018) there had been an "unprecedented" number of enquiries from the MP with 49 letters.

And another report said that after 43 letters were received in the fourth quarter (January to March), the "significant increases in volumes of MP letters continues to be a strain on the service."

However, Ms Cooper pointed out that the number of letters was largely determined by the number of patients raising CCG-related issues with her and that the number of complaints would remain unless the group improve their services.

She said: "Having only received the agenda pack on the morning of the meeting, I managed to scan through and see that there seems to be some disappointment within the CCG at the high number of patient complaints received through my office.

"I fully share that disappointment and have written to the chief officer asking what action the CCG is taking to improve the service offered so that the number of patients who are dissatisfied with the service they provide is reduced.

"I want to know - and I'm sure the public do too - how they are going to improve the service and what targets have been set to reduce this number? There were 63 patient complaints in the third quarter according to the documents.

"NHS England have recognised the issues that the CCG are having dealing with these patient complaints and have now sought their own assurances and launched a formal review.

Respect

"My constituents - who are both the patients and funders of West Lancashire CCG via their taxes - deserve to be treated fairly and respectfully, and so my sincere hope is that the CCG can respond by greatly improving its service to the people of West Lancashire instead of just complaining."

The report to the CCG said that in the fourth quarter there were nine patient complaints of which three were regarding continuing healthcare; another three were about hospitals; two were about medicines management and one about corporate services.

The MP's 43 letters in the fourth quarter were about access to service (12); GP Services (eight); community services (four); commissioning decisions (four); prescribing (four); mental health services (four); dentists (three); corporate services (two) and NHS continuing healthcare (two).

A spokesperson for NHS West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG), said: "We welcome feedback in relation to patient experience, and many patients provide us with their comments or complaints directly.

"We have a dedicated customer care team which focuses on patient insight, as well as correspondence we receive from Rosie Cooper MP.

" We would like to assure local residents that their views matter and that patient feedback is integral to commissioning health services.

"Our hard-working team continues to reply to the high number of letters we receive from the MP and our customer care team can also be contacted directly using the following details 0800 032 24 24 or emailMLCSU.customercarelancashire@nhs.net.

"Following a complaint from the MP, NHS England is carrying out a review into some cases the MP is disappointed with.

"The CCG has since commissioned its own independent external review with a wider scope of its complaints processes with the Mersey Internal Audit Agency and will adopt any learning that comes from this review, in order to make improvements across our entire complaints system as appropriate."

Skem man,19, sentenced to nine years as county lines drugs gang smashed

Report by Henry James

A SKELMERSDALE man who was a member of a 15-strong 'county lines' gang which forged links between Merseyside and north Cumbria to supply class A substances across Carlisle and beyond has been jailed for nine years.

James Bailey, 19, denied the charge but was convicted after a trial.

The case is one of the biggest county lines drug conspiracies uncovered by Cumbria constabulary and a judge offered high praise for the officers who carried out the investigation.

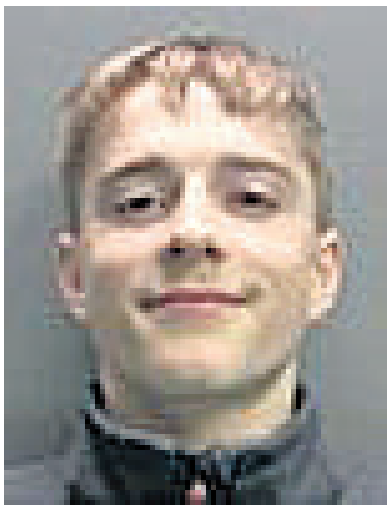
Carlisle was targeted in a conspiracy that saw 'text bomb' adverts for drugs sent out to addicts. But the gang was smashed by Operation Nile, launched and carried out by the constabulary's North Area Drug Squad.

Drug squad detectives were also helped and backed up by departments and agencies such as local and regional policing teams and the Crown Prosecution Service.

During sentencing, Judge Peter Davies said the officers who led and conducted the investigation should be commended.

He said the investigation led to the conspiracy being foiled and major figures apprehended.

County lines is a term used to describe gangs and organised networks involved in exporting drugs into other areas, using dedicated mobile phone lines.



James Bailey.

The group cracked by Operation Nile were involved in a conspiracy to supply heroin and crack cocaine between June and November last year.

They established a customer base by recruiting people from Carlisle and then sent out 'text bombs' - group text messages sent to a large number of drug users offering the supply of drugs.

But complex investigations as part of the unseen policing going on day-and-night in the county, led to a string of arrests and the sentencing at Carlisle Crown Court with prison sentences totalling 90 years handed down.

All the accused pleaded guilty except Bailey and 32-year-old Daniel Brennan of no fixed abode, who were convicted after a trial.

Officers used a range of investigative tactics to uncover the criminal conspiracy.

The conduct of the conspirators and investigations surrounding phone lines and text messages formed the basis of the investigation.

It also involved intricate desktop detective work.

A number of raids across the 10-week operation saw officers seize a variety of drugs, bulking agents, a large number of mobile phones and cash.

Detective Inspector David Cooper welcomed the sentences and warned it sent a stark message to those involved in the county lines drugs world.

"This group, headed by Liverpool criminal Roy Hickman, executed a classic county lines drug supply model to distribute crack, heroin and powder cocaine throughout north Cumbria between June and November 2018.

"Bringing this many offenders to justice was challenging and complex but was matched by the determination, tenacity and skill of the detectives and prosecutors involved.

"The substantial custodial sentences handed out today are welcomed and should be seen as a warning and the inevitable consequence for anyone getting involved in county lines drug supply in north Cumbria."

Jealous lover jailed for milk shake bar rampage enough force to knock her over. He took another swing at Mr Dunn but the width of the counter stopped the blow landing.

Miss Stewart tried to push him outside but he picked up a heavy metal stool and repeatedly struck the window with it, causing it to break and the stool caught her on the head and she fell over, said Mr Hall.

She suffered a four-centimetre laceration to her forehead which later needed butterfly stitches. Mr Dunn suffered bruising to his face and head and particularly under his eye, which he already has problems with.

His wife was left shaken and with bruising to her arm and pain to her neck and jaw, aggravating the difficulties she has with spinal discs in her neck.

When interviewed by police Shacklady claimed that he had not known Miss Stewart worked there and that he thought Mr Dunn was helping a debt collector find him. He said he had not realised his former girlfriend was behind him when he swung the stool.

Miss Stewart told police the incident showed "he does not care about the harm he causes and cannot control his anger and temper."

But Mr Hall said that she has since refused to make an impact statement and she was in the public gallery supporting the defendant.

In her impact statement, which she read to the court, Mrs Dunn described it as "a horrific scenario" and spoke of her "contempt" for Shacklady.

Ian Harris, defending, said that Shacklady has no previous convictions for violence and is remorseful. When he went into the premises "his emotions ran riot, literally, as far as he is concerned."

He explained that the breakdown of the couple's relationship had been the catalyst for the incident.

Have you seen this man?

POLICE are looking for Michael Bullen, 43, of Wheatacre, Skelmersdale, who is wanted in relation to an assault, theft and criminal damage which occurred in the town on Sunday, May 5.

In the incident a man forced his way into an address, causing damage to the property, before assaulting a woman.

The intruder is also alleged to have stolen a set of keys.

Following inquiries police now want to trace Bullen (pictured right) and are asking anybody who has seen him, or knows where he may be, to contact them as soon as possible.

He is described as white, 5ft 11ins tall, of medium build, with blue eyes and dark-brown shaven hair.

He is also wanted for failing to attend court in February in relation to a previous assault which occurred in 2018.

PC Indi Ganly-Boast, of Skelmersdale Police, said: "We are appealing for information about Bullen's whereabouts.

"We would urge anyone who knows where he is to contact police immediately."

Anyone with information is asked to contact police on 01695 566160 or 101, or email forcecontrolroom@lancashire.pnn.police.uk, quoting log 26 of May 8th 2019.

Michael Vella (left) and fellow officials are ready for the big kick-off next weekend.

Club's girls football extravaganza all set for big kick-off

SKEM Athletic will be hosting their 12th National Girls Football Tournament in the town on Saturday and Sunday, June 22 and 23.

Once again teams from all over the UK and Norway will be participating in a weekend football extravaganza.

A total of 108 teams will converge on Blaugegate playing fields and the JMO Sports Park for what is considered the largest all-girls football tournament in the UK - and once again Sky Sports will be in attendance.

The event is run in association with the children's charity, Cardiac Risk In The Young. All money raised over the weekend will give local children the chance to access free heart screenings.

Event organiser, Michael Vella said: "Over the last 12 years we are delighted to say we have raised in excess of £45,000 to charitable causes.

"This is a fantastic event which takes nine months planning to get the best talent in the UK down to Skelmersdale.

"Girls football is the fastest-growing sport in the UK and as a club we feel very proud to say that we've helped to contribute to this.

"With the Women's World Cup being on, teams will be coming down with banners and flags to give it a really big World Cup feeling.

"It would be great if the public would visit the event and see what we have achieved over the last 12 years."

Appeal for information after driver seriously injured in M58 crash

POLICE are appealing for information after a man was seriously injured in a collision on the M58 motorway.

The incident occurred at about 12.22pm on Saturday, June 8 when a Volkswagen Golf travelling eastbound on the motorway M58 near to Bickerstaffe left the carriageway and collided with undergrowth and a tree.

The driver of the car, a man in his 30s from Up Holland, suffered a number of serious injuries. He was taken to Aintree Hospital where he is said to be in a poorly condition.

A four-year-old boy who was a front seat passenger in the car received a minor injury to his head. He was taken to Alder Hey Hospital but later discharged.

Sergeant Mick Belfield, of Lancashire's Road Policing Unit, said: "Our thoughts are with the man, who is seriously injured, at this time.

"We're working to establish the circumstances surrounding the collision and would ask that anyone who witnessed it, or has any dash cam footage to get in touch as soon as possible."

Anyone with information is asked to call 101 and quote log number 580 of June 8.

Council defends asking for 'personal' details in Citizens Survey

Authority says document is 'anonymous' and information is kept confidentially and not used to identify individuals

Report by Kenny Parker

WEST Lancs Council has defended 'personal' questions contained in its 2019 Citizens Survey after a resident demanded to know the relevance of details such as age and sexual orientation.

Reader David Palin from Aughton wrote to the Champion after receiving his copy of the survey which the authority described as being about 'community safety and satisfaction levels with council services as well as feedback on what it is like to live in West Lancs'.

However Mr Palin wanted to know what his age and sexual orientation had to do with street cleaning and bin collection services. He wrote: "I was happy to tell the council about street cleaning as Springfield Road where I live and St Michael Road. are so overgrown with gutter weeds, overgrown pathways and overgrown hedgerows it's impossible to walk on the pathways.

"Towards the end of the Citizens Survey it asks for my age, sex and sexual orientation - if I'm gay, straight or transgender. Is this relevant?

"Why does the council want to know what sexual orientation I am when all I need is for my area to have clean and weed-free gutters and clear pathways to walk on instead of in the road?

"I want my bins collected on the right day regardless of what sex I am. Everyone needs to feel safe in their area whatever age!"

In response a spokesperson for the council said it takes street cleaning responsibilities "very seriously" and added that staff had inspected both Springfield Road and St Michael Road and will address the weed growth in the channels as part of a borough-wide programme undertaken on behalf of Lancashire County Council in the coming months.

Staff had also reported encroachment from hedge/shrubbery close to Back Lane to LCC to take appropriate action in connection with obstructing a public highway.

On the matter of asking about personal details, the spokesperson added: "The council asks for diversity information from residents to help the authority make sure the services it provides meet the diverse needs of our citizens. This is common practice among many public and private sector organisations.

"The Citizens Survey is anonymous, the information is not used to identify anyone individually and is kept confidentially. We recognise some people might consider some of these questions to be personal or sensitive and respondents to the survey are given the option not to answer them."

The Citizens Survey can be accessed online at www.westlancs.gov.uk/cssurvey and is open until Monday, July 8.

Husband-and-wife team win an online 'plug' from Dragons' Den Theo

Report by Henry James

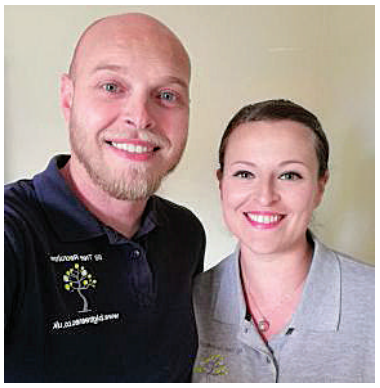
A SKELMERSDALE company run by a husband-and-wife team has been named a winner in the Small Business Sunday scheme run by retail magnate and entrepreneur Theo Paphtis.

Best known for his role as a panellist on the BBC's Dragons' Den where budding entrepreneurs pitch their ideas to business tycoons, Pahptis created Small Business Sunday, shortened to the hashtag #SBS on Twitter, to promote small businesses.

Each week, he rewards small businesses that tweet him @TheoPaphitis and describe their businesses in one tweet including the all-important hashtag #SBS. Only tweets made in the time slot between 5 and 7.30pm each Sunday count and Theo chooses his favourite lucky six who are then re-tweeted to his 500,000 followers.

Big Tree Recruitment in White Moss Road, West Gillibrands was one of the lucky six winners after Claire Rochford, who runs the company with husband Stephen tweeted Theo.



Stephen and Claire Rochford are hoping a Tweet by entrepreneur Theo Paphtis will help boost their recruitment company.

The winning business are profiled on the #SBS website and invited to a business event in Birmingham to meet Theo, who is also chairman of Ryman Stationery.

A delighted Claire told the Champion: "We think this is an amazing opportunity and we are honoured to have been chosen.

"We started Big Tree Recruitment two-and-a-half years ago and as a small business we appreciate support from such a successful and inspirational businessman such as Theo Paphitis.

"We are a specialist recruitment business, specialising in surveying in the construction industry. My husband came up with the business idea as he had worked in surveying for 14 years, and was aware of the difficulties that companies have finding great surveyors.

Community projects

"Stephen had to stop working as a surveyor due to health issues, but still wanted to work within the industry in some way.

"We have now started to branch out into recruitment for West Lancs, supplying customer service, claims advisors and more."

The company is also looking to start community projects and Claire added: "We are also in the process of setting up a tree-planting scheme in Skelmersdale and the local area with the council, to help give back something to the community. For every candidate we place in to a job position, we plant a tree."

High school students get a taste of African culture

STUDENTS at West Lancashire Community High really entered into the spirit of things at an Africa Day held at the school in School Lane, Skelmersdale.

After an informative talk with Julie Woods from the One Little Village charity about her experiences in Ghana, the students got a taste of the country's village life and culture with workshops in drumming, weaving, water carrying and food tasting.

They were also able to prepare and taste okra, plantain, yams and fruits.

The school International council also exchanged videos with a link school in Ghana.

Paula Nixon from West Lancashire Community High said: "This has been a fantastic opportunity for our students to develop an awareness of African culture, having direct contact with a school in Ghana has made the experience real for our students.

"Students had the chance to explore how diverse Africa is and learn about African culture.

"A huge thank you to staff and parents who have donated school stationery and hygiene products to be shipped to Ghana, also teaching assistant Miss Allen who will be doing a sponsored wing walk for the One Little Village charity."

Talk date for U3A group

THE next meeting of the Skelmersdale U3A group will be held on Thursday, June 20 at the Ecumenical Centre when guest speaker Pat Ireland will give a talk on the world-famous 'Agricultural Workers' Strike of 1913' which even made the papers in Australia. This starts at 2.15pm, entrance fee is £1 and all are welcome. For further information ring 01695 729998.

Skem software business helps speed up critical process for leading Irish company

A SKELMERSDALE software company is helping a leading Irish lifting equipment inspection firm to reduce the time it takes to issue critical certification from weeks to a matter of minutes.

CoreRFID, based on the West Lancashire Investment Centre, which specialises in the lifting and hoist sectors, has worked with CraneCare Lifting Services Ltd of Dublin to help transfer its inspections from a paper-based system to an online solution.

CraneCare is now using CoreRFID's CheckedOK solution, which enables inspectors to use a tablet to input data onsite. This is then used to automatically update a secure hosted database and the certification is immediately available for online viewing and download by Cranecare's customers.

In addition to the inspection module, Cranecare has also implemented the system's breakdown and repair facility. This ensures the immediate recording of labour and parts used to carry out a repair and the automatic generation of accurate invoices to make sure no revenue is lost.

Sean McCaffrey, managing director, at CraneCare, said: "CheckedOK will give us greater accuracy, productivity and speed, helping us to enhance our reputation as an industry leader. We are hugely excited to see the benefits this new system will have for our company going forward."

Productive association

CoreRFID technical director, Munzi Ali, added: "CheckedOK delivers greater operational speed and accuracy, which gives users a competitive advantage.

"Irish industry is a very keen adopter of information technology solutions and we're pleased to continue our long and productive association through our work with CraneCare."

Community spirit shines through at Big Lunch initiative - despite the rain!

ORGANISERS of the first Birchwood Big Lunch initiative have thanked the local community for their support.

Staged at the Tanhouse Community Centre on Saturday, June 1, the event was organised by Birchwood Centre and the Birchwood Junk Food Cafe with support from the Tanhouse Community Enterprise.

And even the wet weather couldn't dampen the spirits!

A spokesperson for the event said: "Birchwood's Big Lunch was a brilliant success!

"After weeks of planning our amazing volunteers, staff and partner organisations pulled out all the stops to create a fantastic event for the whole community - even the weather didn't stand in our way!

"The community came out in full force, braving the rain and joined in with our delicious lunch - even bringing their own to share with their neighbours.

"It was great to see so many children and families having fun together by taking part in air archery or having a go on the Juice-bike.

"As it was Volunteer Week, we also wanted to make sure we celebrated our team of volunteers who give their time, skills and ideas and make community events like this, so special.

"A big thank-you to our Junk Food Cafe for the delicious food and to everyone who came along in support.

"Anyone who has any ideas for another Big Lunch or community event in the area is asked to get in touch with the Birchwood team."

Youngsters enjoy the Birchwood Big Lunch.

Submissions invited now for Lancashire Open Exhibition 2019

Chance for artists of all genres to exhibit their work to the public in a professional gallery

Flashback to last year's Lancashire Open Exhibition . . . then Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Noel Delaney pictured with joint second prize winner Kathryn Poole.

ENTRIES are now being invited for the Lancashire Open Exhibition 2019 to be staged at West Lancs Council's Chapel Gallery in Ormskirk.

If you like to draw, paint, take photographs or make prints or sculptures, this is your opportunity to exhibit your work in a professional art gallery.

Amateur and professional artists alike have the chance to exhibit at the popular event. So, even if you've never exhibited in an art gallery before, this is an excellent opportunity to get your work seen by the general public.

You can submit your entry online at chapelgallery.org.uk/open-2019/ by the deadline (9am, Monday, July 1) or you can make your submission in person, with your completed entry form, on Friday or Saturday, July 5 and 6 between 10am and 4.30pm.

Entry forms can be downloaded from chapelgallery.org.uk/open-2019/ or you contact staff at the Chapel Gallery to request a hard copy.

If selected, your work will be exhibited at the gallery in St Helens Road July 20 to September 4.

The annual exhibition offers a diverse array of artworks with a different panel of guest judges presiding over each selection. It includes work from most disciplines and is open to anyone to enter.

First prize is £800, with £400 and £200 respectively for second and third places. Commendations are also awarded along with the prestigious Peoples' Prize, voted by visitors to the gallery.

Councillor Yvonne Gagen, West Lancs Council's portfolio holder for leisure, said: "Anyone can put their works forward for the wonderful Lancashire Open Exhibition. So if you are an artist get your entry form now for the chance to have your work in the exhibition."

Entrants must be 18 years old or over and can submit two original pieces of artwork to be viewed by the selection panel. All media entered will be considered - from drawing, painting, printmaking and three-dimensional work, to photography, sculpture and textiles.

Whilst it is easiest to fill in your entry form online, you can also call on 01695 571328 for an emailed version or pop into the gallery which is open from 10am to 4.30pm, Tuesday to Saturday.

Artz Centre hosts art and poetry exhibition to mark Refugee Week

Report by Henry James

A GROUNDBREAKING exhibition featuring art and poetry on the theme of 'journeys' is being staged at the Artz Centre in Skelmersdale to mark Refugee Week 2019.

Running from 10am to 4pm on Saturday and Sunday, June 22 and 23, the exhibition, Destination Skelmersdale, was the idea of Lawrence Smye-Rumsby, a member of Skem International, a voluntary group formed of members of the community including refugees.

He said: "Skelmersdale is a jewel in the crown of West Lancs. There are incredibly talented and committed people here and I wanted to celebrate that.

"It also has a long history of being a haven for new people. The New Town was built in a wave of optimism. It promised new opportunities and jobs and created a new home for people - whether from Liverpool or further afield."

For Lawrence, who is also a caseworker with West Lancs CVS, the exhibition brings together several strands of his life. "I came to Skelmersdale in the 1980s to take up a teaching post. I married and raised a family here and have loved living here ever since. When I retired a few years ago, I also started working with some of the refugees who had been placed here by the government's resettlement programme. More recently as part of my work in local churches, I visited Uganda and was very moved by the people I met and their culture.

"All of these things have set me thinking about different journeys we make in our lives and this began to be reflected in my art work. It seemed to me that art is a good vehicle to express stories – my own and those of others."

The exhibition features work from six artists and a poet, all of whom have been on journeys of one sort or another.

Among those exhibiting is Nourhan, a Syrian refugee who came to Skelmersdale a few years ago. A talented artist with no formal training, she paints in watercolours and found solace in her art while in the transit camps of Lebanon, having escaped the Syrian war.

She said: "My drawing was like oxygen where all the things around me were meaningless until I started painting. I saw beginnings with every painting I did. I saw beauty and life."

Another artist featured is the late Roy Lyon who was born and bred in Skelmersdale. He worked as town planner in Bolton but designed houses as a hobby, many of which were built around West Lancs.

He also designed artefacts for the new Anglican cathedral in Liverpool and for local churches and when he died in 1991 he left an amazing body of work.

Another artist whose work will be shown posthumously is Noel Gray who lived in Skelmersdale around the same time as Roy but was originally from India.

Having left the Merchant Navy due to ill health, a chance meeting in Liverpool brought him to his brother's home in Skelmersdale where he met his future wife Margaret.

The couple wed in 1949 and went on to have seven children. Many of Noel's descendants still live in the town, including grandson Mark Ashton, company director of the Artz Centre.

Mark said: "My grandfather was a talented artist and painted with oils. I remember his art work when I was growing up and I'm so proud to be able to help show his work to a wider audience."

Some of the artwork will be for sale, with any money raised going to two charities, Skem International, supporting refugees in the town; and International Needs Uganda, helping families create a sustainable future.

Veterans celebrate D-Day anniversary with special display at library

MEMBERS of the Skelmersdale Veterans' Association helped to mark the 75th Anniversary of the D-Day landings on June 6, 1944 with a special display in Skelmersdale library.

Visitors to the event were invited to leave their own messages to loved ones on the footprints display representing the fallen on the beaches of Normandy and have photos taken with the Silent Soldier silhouettes.

Chairman of the veterans, Alan Lewis, said: "On June 6 1944 and during the long summer that followed, men from all over the world went to fight in Normandy to defeat Nazism and re-establish freedom.

"Normandy will bear the scars of this moment in history for ever and every year we remember and pay tribute to the veterans from America, Britain, Canada, Belgium, Denmark, Holland, Norway, Poland and Australia, along with their brothers in arms, those many heroes who lost their lives there during that summer of 1944."

Forklift and warehouse training company set to open up in town

A COMPANY specialising in forklift and warehouse training is set to open an operation on the Pimbo Industrial Estate on Monday, June 17.

FTW Training, established in Widnes in 2013, has recently undergone significant expansion, delivering training to companies nationwide and upskilling unemployed people in the local area.

Gaining a nationally-accredited forklift licence can help to boost the job prospects of someone who is unemployed and looking to work in the warehousing and logistics sector.

FTW managing director, Stephen Dovey, said: "I'm delighted to be opening a location in the Skelmersdale area. Skelmersdale is a fast moving and rapidly expanding town that I believe is the perfect location for our forklift and warehousing training.

"We have access to funding to help unemployed people gain the qualifications and skills to get them back into work, couple this with our wide range of forklift training for businesses locally and nationwide, I'm confident we're going to bring a lot of value to the Skelmersdale area."

To find out more about the courses on offer at FTW Training visit www.ftwtraining.com or call 0151 420 3444.

Extra £200k funding allocated for projects to reduce reoffending

Report by Henry James

LANCASHIRE'S Police and Crime Commissioner, Clive Grunshaw, has announced a further £200k will be allocated to help reduce reoffending across the county.

Since launching his dedicated fund almost a year ago, the commissioner says more than £250k has been provided to 17 projects so far.

Charities, organisations and partners will again be able to bid for projects that work with offenders in their areas and help integrate them back into the community.

Applications for grants of up to £25k will be reviewed by representatives from the four local Reducing Reoffending Boards covering the north, south, east and west of the county, ensuring that projects address local concerns and tackle the issues that most matter to people.

Members of the local boards include Lancashire Constabulary, local authorities and the regional Community Rehabilitation Company (CRC).

Last year, the commissioner also appointed a new independent chair to ensure consistency across each local board, working towards his priorities.

Lancashire's Police and Crime Commissioner Clive Grunshaw.

He said: "I'm delighted to reopen my Reducing Reoffending Fund and over the past year have been really impressed with the quality of applications the projects which have been making a real difference up and down the county, and the enthusiasm that we have seen to continue this work going forward.

"Policing alone cannot prevent people reoffending and that is why I continue to support initiatives that break the cycle offenders all too often find themselves trapped in, moving them away from a life of crime.

"I have seen first-hand the difference these projects make in our neighbourhoods and in the lives of the people who live there. Tackling crime and reoffending is a key priority in my Police and Crime Plan and by working with partners to support the delivery of these projects we are delivering value for money, whilst helping people turn their lives around.

Priorities

Jerry Graham, independent chair of the Local Reducing Reoffending Boards, said: "Since the commissioner launched his reducing reoffending fund last year, the local boards have helped to make sure that each project addresses the issues that matter most to people in each area that they cover, meeting the priorities that the commissioner has in relation to tackling reoffending in Lancashire.

"I am pleased that this gives us the opportunity to further build on the great work that has already been done with help from the fund and look forward to seeing the potential projects and how these will once again make a difference."

The fund will close to new applications at 5pm on Monday, July 8.

Concourse security officer in contention for industry's national Best Newcomer title

Matt's 'infectious personality' sees him scoop regional title just four months into role at Skem shopping centre

A SECURITY officer at the Concourse shopping centre in Skelmersdale is in the running for a national award for his "infectious personality and drive to help others" - just four months into the job!

Matt Bray is vying for the Best Newcomer award in this year's British Security Industry Association (BSIA) awards, the trade body that represents the UK's private security industry, after winning the North West regional title.

The 30-year-old, who is employed by facilities management company the Westgrove Group, has won praise from customers.

He was recognised for helping an elderly man who was unsteady on his feet and then completing his shopping for him, and also for quickly resolving an issue with a children's vending machine, exceeding the customer's expectations.

Gary Mitchell, manager of the shopping centre, which is owned and managed by national commercial property and investment company LCP, said: "We're proud of our security team here at the Concourse who go out of their way to ensure staff and shoppers stay safe.

"Matt has already made an impact, with his friendly personality and willingness to help others, so we're thrilled he's already been recognised for this work. We wish him all the best in the national finals."

Matt Bray said: "It's my first job in the security sector and I really enjoy knowing I've made a difference in a customer's shopping experience and help out wherever I can.

"I wasn't expecting to receive this award, as I see it as I'm only doing my job, but the recognition is overwhelming."

Mike Reddington, chief executive of the BSIA, said: "It is vital as the voice of the professional security industry that we recognise the great lengths security personnel go to in keeping the public and property safe.

"More often than not, these security professionals are first on the scene when incidents and emergencies occur and they demonstrate true quality and professionalism in their actions. This year's regional winners are no exception and have shown remarkable achievements throughout the past year."

Claire McKinley Smith, managing director of Westgrove Group, said Matthew is one of six members of its staff who have reached the national finals. "This is our sixth consecutive year of BSIA awards and as always we are very proud of our security officers for their dedication, loyalty, team work, customer service, use of technology and their bravery. It is a remarkable achievement and a testament to how our people go the extra mile for the company and our partners."

The finals of the British Security Awards will be held in London on Wednesday, July 10 at the Marriott Hotel, Grosvenor Square.

Skem Men-Aces celebrate collecting silverware.

Men-Aces back on target for silverware at the double

THE Skem Men-Aces disability football club got back to winning ways at the double with both A and B teams taking silverware in a tournament at Wrexham.

The level of competition was high with a total of 24 teams taking part including sides from Birmingham, Wrexham, St Anne's, Leek and last year's winners, Welsh national squad.

But it was the Men-Aces A and B teams who set the standards from the off, producing some good football.

Both teams progressed through to their respective semi-finals with many compliments and good luck messages from the other teams.

The semis proved to be nail-biters with the atmosphere electric as the Men-Aces squads stepped up another gear to secure a place in the finals.

Skem A played St Christopher, the Welsh national team and defied the odds to come out on top.

With time running out Theo Duke smashed home the opening goal and then followed up to slot home a second to ensure it was Skem who picked up the silverware.

The B team match was end-to-end action, with Skem taking the lead, but not for long as St Anne's equalised taking the game to a penalty shoot-out.

The Men-Aces lads held their nerve to once again secure the silverware.

Men-Aces managers Carl and Mim Eaton commented: "The bus trip home was a happy one and we couldn't be more proud of each and every one of the lads."

Village fair procession to feature 'Wonders of the World' theme

'WONDERS of the World' will come to the streets of Newburgh when the village stages its 42nd Annual Fair on Saturday, June 22.

Children's visions of the Pyramids, the Taj Mahal, the Great Wall of China and ancient monuments of Greece and Rome will feature on the floats in the procession around the village starting at 12pm.

The procession will be led by the talented Red Admiral Music Academy Band, taking in all parts of the village before arriving at Newburgh School field in Back Lane for the crowning of the Rose Queen.

Fiona Casey, chair of the Newburgh Fair Association, said: "We really wanted to excite our children's imaginations so have chosen this international theme for the procession.

"We've then arranged a fun afternoon with a craft show, karate and gymnastics demonstrations, and Morris dancing.

"We're also repeating the circus skills workshops which were so popular last year with children and adults, then there's an invitation to the village dogs to come and wag their tails and a community tug of war."

Red Admiral Music band en route through Newburgh at last year's event. They will lead the procession again this year.

Rounding off the day starting at 7pm will be the Newburgh Fair Hoedown.

The programme for the week leading up to the fair is as follows:

Sunday, June 16 - 10.30am Community Celebration Service followed by village picnic. A service to recognise the contribution of village and West Lancashire organisations to village life and to celebrate Newburgh Fair week and the 10th anniversary of the children's play area in Back Lane. The new Newburgh School choir will sing and the Red Admiral Music Academy Band will play at the service.

This will be followed at noon by a bring-your-own family picnic on Newburgh School Field, along the lines of the national Big Lunch which encourages community get-togethers.

Tuesday, June 18 - 7.30pm, Douglas Valley Lions Bingo Night.

Wednesday, June 19 - 7.30pm, Folk Night with Merry Hell (sold out).

Rail company apologises for disturbing residents with 'vital' night-time work

NETWORK Rail has apologised for any disturbance caused to residents in Aughton as a result of "vital" track works carried out in the early hours of Thursday, May 23.

Residents of Mickering Lane had complained to West Lancs Council while one wrote to borough MP Rosie Cooper and the chief executive of the authority to complain.

One resident whose family, including two young children, were woken by the "very loud noise" said: "We were shattered the next day. There was no prior notice letter about the work. It was during the week and we had work the next day and also the kids were in school."

A spokesperson for the company said: "We're sorry that Mickering Lane residents were disturbed when we carried out vital maintenance work on the railway in the early hours of May 23. We were replacing and maintaining the ballast - the stones which the tracks sit on - which is essential to help run a safe and reliable railway.

"The machine travels over long distances on any given night which is why we are unable to notify residents in advance. We understand the inconvenience, but this work has to be done at night, when trains aren't running, so we can keep passengers moving without disruption during the day."

Five-figure grants up for grabs for housing projects in aid of vulnerable

Applications invited from charities, community trusts and co-operatives

ORGANISATIONS and charities in Lancashire are being invited to apply for grants of between £10,000 and £50,000 for housing projects to support the most vulnerable in local communities.

Building Society Nationwide is making £500,000 available to help make a difference to communities across the region.

To date, the society has awarded £4 million in grants to more than 100 projects and will be investing £5.5 million in housing projects across the UK per year.

The programme is being delivered with support from UK Community Foundations, the national network for all accredited community foundations across the country.

Charities, community land trusts and housing co-operatives across Lancashire can apply for grants of between £10,000 and £50,000 for one or two years to make a change in their local area. The application process closes on Friday, July 5 and successful applicants will be notified by the end of September.

Rae Brooke, chief executive for the Community Foundation for Lancashire and Merseyside, said: "Finding safe, affordable and sustainable housing is a growing challenge for communities across our region. That's why we're proud to work with Nationwide Building Society to fund the organisations tackling this issue on the ground and supporting those who need it most."

A Community Board, comprised of Nationwide members and employees, will review all the grant applications and award grants of up to a £50,000. The board and Nationwide branches within the region will also be providing time and expertise to these charities.

Full details can be found at www.nationwide.co.uk/community-funding, in local Nationwide branches or by contacting the local Community Foundation.

Individual or groups in Lancashire can apply at http://www.lancsfoundation.org.uk/funds/nationwide-building-society-community-grants.

Waterways charity says canal visitors can 'do their bit' to tackle global plastics crisis

Report by Henry James

THE charity that is responsible for the upkeep of the Leeds & Liverpool Canal is calling on people who use the waterway to help tackle the global plastics crisis.

The Canal & River Trust, which cares for 2,000 miles of canals and river navigations in England and Wales, is urging locals to 'do their bit' by picking up a piece of plastic and recycling it.

Working with Coventry University, the charity has published a detailed analysis of the plastics and other litter found in its waterways. The research, which reviewed data from 25 locations, found that plastics now account for 59% of waste found along its canals.

The trust estimates that 570,000 items of plastic reach the world's oceans each year via its waterways but says with the help of local communities this figure could be drastically cut.

Peter Birch, national environmental policy advisor at the Canal & River Trust, said: "We are on a mission to eradicate plastics from our vast network of canals and rivers - helping us all to live in better, more beautiful neighbourhoods, while tackling a global issue."

Studies show that around 80% of the plastics and litter found in the oceans comes from inland waste that passes through water-courses around the world and out to sea.

Peter added: "Devastatingly, despite being vital green corridors in towns and cities, our canals and rivers can inadvertently act as 'plastics highways', transporting rubbish from where we live out to sea. Not only is this a huge problem for wildlife, which can be harmed, it also detracts from these special and important wellbeing places in our towns and cities.

"We believe everyone deserves - and can help create - beauty on their doorstep and by taking action locally, they will also be helping tackle a global issue."

As canals and rivers become more accessible - the charity's waterways in the North West received more than 58 million visits last year - and with almost one in five people admitting to dropping litter, a lot of this can end up in our waterways. The vast majority of the litter found along and in the canals each year is potentially recyclable or could be re-used in creative and innovative ways.

The trust is calling on every visitor to its waterways in the North West to make their own small contribution to help keep them clear of plastics, whether by picking up and recycling a piece each time they visit, joining the trust's growing band of volunteers, or even adopting a short stretch of their local canal with friends, neighbours or colleagues.

Crossing cameras welcome, now let's see them where they're really needed!

RE: 'Hi-tech safety cameras installed at 'high-risk' rail level crossings' (Champion, June 5).

Having travelled over Hoscar Moss Road level crossing twice a day for nearly 20 years, and never having seen anyone attempt to cross whether barriers were down or lights flashed red, I am sure the installation of cameras is still a sensible move.

Perhaps the authorities which deal with such installations will now turn their attention to the two key areas where they really are needed.

I doubt I need state that these are the junction of Long Lane and Prescot Road in Aughton, where I have witnessed the carnage caused on more than one occasion by a red light jumper, and at Five Ways on County Road, Ormskirk, where my daughter was smacked into by a red light jumper causing severe damage to her car some years back.

I really do not want to see any more such appalling driving.

Martin Pagett, Aughton.

A thought for all retired 'talk and chalk' teachers

THIS letter will only interest long retired 'talk and chalk' teachers, particularly those who may have suffered chest infections, continual coughs or breathing problems since retiring.

Have you ever thought of the years we stood in front of a blackboard breathing in clouds of chalk dust, most of us five days a week for roughly 30 years?

This thought hit me after being diagnosed with calcification in my lung after what seemed like a never-ending cough. I was asked if I had ever worked in factory dust, a mill, with asbestos or in a coal mine etc. It was at that interview that I realised I had only worked as a teacher and been breathing in chalk for many, many years.

If I had worked with asbestos or coal dust for example I would be thinking asbestosis or silicosis, so should I think 'chalkosis'? Just a thought - one that has come a little late, me thinks!

Joan Davies, Parbold.

Let's give carers the help they deserve

THIS is Carers Week, when we recognise the 6.5 million carers living in the UK.

It is estimated that unpaid carers save the economy £60bn per year. That's why, as a charity we are passionate to do all we can to support unpaid carers and ensure they all have access to good quality respite.

I work for Revitalise, an amazing national charity that creates holidays for disabled people and carers at our three accessible respite holiday centres in Chigwell in Essex, Southampton and Southport. Our guests often tell us just how important their break has been for their well-being.

Many carers dedicate their entire life to looking after those they love. For these people, their own happiness and well-being is determined by the happiness of those they care for.

An estimated 6,000 people take on caring responsibilities every day. That's why, I'd like to take a moment to reassure your readers that we are here to help. Revitalise is a place where carers and their loved ones can come at the times when they need us the most and simply spend time together. Carers can choose to accompany their loved one or enjoy a break elsewhere. Either way they can hand over the caring role to us and have a rest. Our centres are open to our guests all year round, and we have hardship funding for those that need it.

We passionately believe that everybody deserves a break and are determined that nobody should miss out on the opportunity for financial reasons.

To find out more about Revitalise, our breaks, or ways that we may be able to support you please visit www.revitalise.org.uk or call 0303 303 0145.

Youngsters' Spanish song challenge in aid of autism charity

Report by Kenny Parker

YOUNGSTERS from West Lancashire helped to raise almost £1,000 for a children's autism charity by learning to sing a song in Spanish.

More than 100 youngsters from Kidslngo, which holds Spanish lessons at a number of venues in Ormskirk, Aughton, Lydiate and Southport, joined an estimated 120,000 other children across the country in completing various sponsored challenges as part of Children Activities Week.

The event is a partnership between the Children's Activities Association, a not-for-profit industry-led organisation which aims to raise standards in organised children's activities, and charity Caudwell Children, which provides support for autistic children.

Sarah Serey Canales, teacher and activity leader with Kidslingo, said: "We are so proud to have been a part of Children's Activities Week 2019 and the local children I teach Spanish to, who are aged two to eight years old, had so much fun learning and practicing the specially written song, Watch Me Fly, for the sponsored challenge. And as well as singing in Spanish the children also performed the song with makaton (signs and symbols)actions."

The local venues where pupils took part in the fundraising event were Pavilion Pre-School and Christ Church Ministry Centre in Aughton, and Munchkins Childcare and Moorgate Nursery School in Ormskirk.

The money raised from all the sponsored challenges, including the £950 raised at Kidslingo, will fund assessments and practical support for autistic children at the new Caudwell International Children's Centre, the UK's first independent purpose-built centre dedicated to autism at Keele University in Staffordshire.

Record turn-out of vehicles at annual classic motors event

ORGANISERS of the fourth Annual Classic Car and Motorbike show at Mawdesley Cricket Club were 'bowled over' by the record number and quality of classic vehicles taking part this year.

The event, on Bank Holiday Monday, May 27, saw more than 290 classic cars and bikes on display, along with a host of stalls and other activities.

Alongside the motors on display, there was much to enjoy for the many visitors including a ride in a vintage 1948 Bedford OB Bus from the William Hunter vehicle collection, while entertainment included a flying display by members of the Merseside Model Club.

There were five vehicle classes competing in the show which was said to have attracted "some magnificent machines and their rightly proud owners."

Results were as follows:

Pre-1950 Class winner - 1923 Bentley 3-litre Red Label Speed.

1950-1969 Class winner - 1966 Austin Healey BJ8 3-litre.

1970-1989 Class winner - 1973 E-Type Series 3.

1990 and later Class winner - 1990 Ferrari Mondial.

Motorcycle and Scooter Class winner - 1963 Norton Manx Inter.

The Lancaster Insurance 'Peoples' Choice Best in Show' Cup, voted for by the public, was won by James Kilner with his 1966 Healey 3-litre.

Proud owner James Kilner with his 1966 Healey 3-litre and the Lancaster Insurance Best in Show Peoples' Choice Cup.

And the 'Best in Show Ashley Proctor Memorial Cup winner, chosen by the judges, was a 1923 Bentley whose owner preferred not to be named.

Chair of the organising committee, Martin Trengove, said: "We are absolutely delighted not only with the number but also the quality of the vehicles that entered the show this year. It was great to see such a variety ranging from classic sports cars and motorcycles, to modern supercars including a McLaren and a dancing Tesla, together with seriously modified modern cars.

"As a big fan of British sports cars I was particularly pleased to see a Daimler Dart and two Blower Bentleys, as well as a number of wonderful big Healeys and E-types, all in wonderful condition.

"The show is getting bigger and better every year and planning for the 2020 event starts now !"

The launch of The Victim Friendly Organisation programme in Blackpool.

New support service launched for victims of crime in county

LANCASHIRE Victim Services has launched a new programme to accredit businesses in the county as Victim Friendly Organisations.

The programme offers the opportunity to train staff on the impact of crime, the support available and how to best communicate with someone who has fallen victim.

Organisations will also learn more about Lancashire Victim Services and how to refer staff when they need support.

Funded by the Lancashire Police and Crime Commissioner and part of national charity Victim Support, Lancashire Victim Services offers immediate and long-term support to victims of all crimes. Their team of specialist case workers provide practical help and emotional support, whether or not they choose to report the incident to the police.

Faye Speed from Lancashire Victim Services, said: "The Victim Friendly Organisation programme is open to businesses, clubs, societies and other charities who want to help us support victims of crime.

"Once signed up, organisations will go through initial training on supporting victims of crime and then have access to specialist workshops on specific crime types such as domestic abuse and hate crime.

It's a great opportunity for individuals to learn new skills and for organisations to become part of a wider community helping to tackle the impact of crime in the county."

Lancashire Police and Crime Commissioner, Clive Grunshaw, added: "Supporting victims of crime is a key priority for me so to see this programme launch in Lancashire is really exciting.

"I set up Lancashire Victim Services to ensure that victims of crime can access the help and support they need and to see the service work with other organisations to train their staff and to raise awareness of the support available is fantastic."

For more information on how to become a Victim Friendly Organisation contact faye.speed@victim-support.org.uk.

Burscough residents to have vote on new Neighbourhood Plan

PEOPLE living in the Burscough parish area are to be given a vote on a Neighbourhood Plan which, if accepted, will be used by West Lancs Council when making decisions on proposed development in the parish.

The Burscough Parish Neighbourhood Plan contains a vision, objectives and planning policies for the area, covering a time period to 2027. It will help to shape:

- What development takes place in the future and where.
- What new buildings will be expected to look like.
- What new infrastructure may be needed.
- Which sites, such as open spaces, should be protected.

The plan has been prepared by Burscough Parish Council. Consultations have been carried out with the local community and an independent examiner has agreed the plan meets the necessary requirements to be adopted.

Now a referendum will take place on Thursday, July 11 for residents of the parish who are registered to vote to decide whether the borough council should adopt the plan.

If voters say yes, the plan will be used as part of the planning process for determining planning applications in the parish of Burscough.

This so-called modern 'classic' music is not to my taste . . .

HOPEFULLY one last health update on my dog Tina. She's back! Back completely to normal, my dog. She has her appetite back, she's keen for her walks - and she is no longer irritable and snappy.

The only legacy of her recent indisposition is that her unfortunate companion, Cinders, is now afraid to be in the same room as Tina. Cinders, you see, made the mistake of annoying Tina when she was feeling very poorly - and poorly or not, Tina got very much the better of the exchanges.

Still, I reckon that once they both settle down properly they will also get their relationship back on an even keel as well. Tina was always 'Top Dog', but she felt no need to prove it.

Anyway, back to the usual trivia of life.

I don't know how many of you listen to Classic FM on the radio but for the past several years that has been the 'default' setting on mine. Just lately however I've been tempted on to Radio 4, Five Live and even Radio Merseyside from time to time, though I admit I find its relentless cheerfulness just that bit too annoying.

My problem is that I actually assumed that Classic FM would provide me with classic music, which indeed it used mainly to do. Now, looking in my old-fashioned dictionary, I find that the definition of music is: 'vocal, instrumental or mechanical sounds that have rhythm, melody or harmony'. Back in the day, I was as enthusiastic as my associates for the 'pop music' of the time and certainly it normally contained at least two of those three definitions that qualified it as music. I had also learned from an early age that some so-called 'classical music' was also good -sometimes very good - to listen to.

I confess that my interest in 'pop' faded during the 1980s - I wonder just how many 'tunes' of today will still be around in say 40 or 50 years' time? The Beatles, or the Strolling Groans (sorry, Rolling Stones) for that matter are still known and popular for their music - but I digress, back to Classic FM.

I really hope I'm not being in any way a snob here, but when I tune into a radio station that claims to have the best in classical music, then that is what I hope to hear. And unhappily, much of its content these days seems to be built around the top 30 or whatever "as voted for by you!"

Not by me it wasn't!

The problem with this kind of poll is that it is short-term and at best reflects things that are hopefully a passing fad. And in this case, most of this is so-called 'music from the movies'.

Not that all film music is bad at all. Some, like the Dam Busters March, music from Titanic or some of the Bond films and many others, is very good indeed.

But much of what is picked up on Classic FM is from the soundtrack of films where the 'music' is an accompaniment to specific action within the film (and if you haven't seen the film means absolutely nothing) and certainly do not possess rhythm, melody nor harmony. More like a broken-down bin lorry.

It's not that I like all what I would term classical music - some, just like 60s pop, is better suited to my taste than others.

But my greatest bugbear by far at the moment is a modern 'classical' composer chappy by the name of Einaudi. For some reason this bloke seems to have multiple entries in the classical charts, which might be all very well except that so far as I can see each of his compositions seems to sound exactly the same, with a series of notes being replayed ad infinitum. He just seems to be the 'in' thing at the moment.

Mind you, this character has brought back to me that wonderful programme Just a Minute on Radio 4, so perhaps it is not so bad after all.

County council offer of help to EU citizens with applications for Settlement Scheme

LANCASHIRE County Council is offering help to people who are applying to the Government's EU Settlement Scheme.

The scheme, which has been introduced by the Home Office, encourages EU residents to apply to continue to live in Britain following Brexit. More information is available at the gov.uk website.

As part of the application process, people need to scan their Passport or ID card using an Android smartphone or tablet to verify their identity.

Anyone who does not have a suitable device, or is having difficulty scanning their passport or ID card, can attend a drop-in session at Certificate Services at the Record Office in Bow Lane, Preston, where it will be scanned and verified for them. The sessions are available from Mondays to Thursdays from 9am until noon. There is a charge of £14 per person to cover the cost of the service which has been set by the Home Office.

The county council is also working with national charity We Are Digital to offer free bookable sessions to help people with an Android device who have difficulties using technology to complete the checks they need to apply for EU Settled Status.

We Are Digital will assess whether people are eligible for the service. These free sessions are part of the Government's Assisted Digital Support scheme.

Sessions are available at selected libraries in the county including Ormskirk.

A spokesman for Lancashire County Council said: "If you're a European Union, European Economic Area or Swiss citizen and want to continue to live in the UK after Brexit, you and your family will be able to apply to get either settled or pre-settled status.

"The Government is encouraging people to do this online at gov.uk, however, some people will need help to complete the process. You can only verify your application using an Android device and if you don't have access to one, you can use our scanning drop-in sessions at Bow Lane in Preston. You don't need to book for this service.

"If you have access to an Android device but have difficulties using the app, or completing the application process, you can book a session with staff at one of the seven libraries that are offering the Assisted Digital Support service."

To find out more about how the county council is supporting people who are applying for settled or pre-settled status, including the ID scanning service, visit https://www.lancashire.gov.uk/births-marriages-and-deaths/european-settlement-scheme/. To check whether you are eligible for support via the Assisted Digital Support service, call We Are Digital on 03333 445 675.

Football club looking to recruit more girl players as part of FA initiative

Free coaching and playing on offer for duration of school summer holidays

OFFICIALS of a junior football club are looking to recruit more girl players - with the offer of free coaching and playing over the school summer holidays as an incentive.

Ormskirk FC currently have one all-girls under-7s team who have just completed their first season in the Hightown League.

They will be moving up to form an under-8s team next season and, as part of an FA-driven initiative, the club is looking to recruit more youngsters to form a new under-7s squad for the new season starting in September.

They are inviting any families who have girls aged five or six (presently in school Year 1) who wish to play football, to register with the club between now and August - with training subs completely free until the end of August.

The girls train on a Tuesday evening from 6 to 7pm at the JMO Sport Park in Skelmersdale and youngsters from across West Lancs are welcome.

Teams are five-a-side and the club hopes to have a squad of at least seven girls.

The Ormskirk FC' under-7s girls team who have just finished their first season in the Hghtown League.

Meanwhile the club is also looking to enlist parents or students who wish to volunteer as coaches with the aim of possibly creating further girls teams. .

Joanne Bedford, welfare officer at the club, said: "We are very keen to create more girls teams as part of an FA initiative to increase the participation of girls at grassroots level.

"Although we do welcome girls of any age into our club, we currently have just one all-girls team who began playing at aged six and have just finished their first season at league level

"Our goal is to do this many more times and we are hoping to be successful before the new season starts in September by producing another team of girls at the age of six who will play at under-7s level."

Campaign to recruit foster carers targets community events

Report by Kenny Parker

The county council is encouraging people to find out more about becoming foster carers at local events.

LANCASHIRE County Council's latest campaign to recruit foster carers includes an opportunity to meet with current foster carers and social workers at local events to find out more.

The authority says there are around 20 new Lancashire children going into care each week who need urgent foster care placements,

At local events taking place in June, members of Lancashire County Council's fostering team, as well as social workers and current foster carers, will be available to answer questions, talk you through the process of becoming a foster carer, and offer advice.

The local events are:

• Saturday, June 22, 1 to 5pm, Newburgh Fair, Newburgh Primary School field, Back Lane, Newburgh.

• Sunday, June 23, 11am to 4pm, It's a Knockout, Tarleton Corinthians FC, Carr Lane, Tarleton.

• Saturday and Sunday, June 29 and 30, 10am to 4pm, Leisure Lakes, Steam and Vintage Vehicle Rally, Mere Brow, Tarleton.

The county council has increased the allowances payable to new foster carers, so now they can expect to receive between £241 and £300 per week for each child they care for.

People who have considered fostering before, but weren't sure they could afford it, are advised to go along to an event and find out if it could now be a viable option.

County Councillor Phillippa Williamson, cabinet member for children, young people and schools, said: "With around 20 Lancashire children needing homes each week, we need to recruit new foster carers.

"Just go along to one of these events to find out if this could be for you. You'll be able to talk to our friendly team and our foster carers about what it is like to foster in an informal setting, as well as having a fantastic day out.

"If there's nothing in your area at the moment, don't worry as we will be going along to more events throughout the year. Just check our website on a regular basis for up-to-date information."

To be considered as foster carers, people need to be over 21, and living in or close to Lancashire.

If you're unable to go along to an event but want to find out more about becoming a foster carer, call the recruitment team on 0300 123 6723 or visit the website www.lancashire.gov.uk/fostering.

A day bird watching at WWT Martin Mere

WWT Martin Mere is one of the key places to go bird watching in Lancashire. With our variety of habitats we're a great day out at any time of the year, but spring and summer are a favourite due to all the new life that springs up around the wetlands.

Start your day by heading down the nature trail towards Harrier Hide. As you pass hawthorn hedges, keep your eyes out for Whitethroats and nesting Goldfinches as they particularly enjoy these hedges. When you reach the Harrier Hide, head through the doors on the ground floor and out onto the Reedbed Walk where you can hear lots of reedbed species including Reed Warblers, Sedge Warblers, Grasshopper Warblers, Cuckoo, Bittern, Water Rail and, new to the site in 2018/2019, Bearded Tits. In deeper waters, look out for Pochard and Crested Grebes with their chicks riding on their backs.

As you reach the end of the Reedbed Walk approaching the United Utilities Hide, look out towards Woodend Marsh as this is a great spot to see some passage waders; maybe an occasional Pectoral Sandpiper or Temminck's Stint.

Walking back towards the main building along the nature trail, look out onto the mere. In the summer, it hosts breeding Black-headed Gulls, Common Terns and Avocets – keep a look out for any chicks! The nature trail overlooking the mere also offers great views of wildfowl including Shelduck, Pochard, Shoveler, Wigeon, and over summering Whooper Swans.

Pop into the InFocus shop on your way past for up-to-date wildlife sightings – they'll be able to point you in the right direction of anything unusual or rare around the wetlands. Next, head towards the Ron Barker Hide. Along the way, look out for Tree Sparrows which nest along the nature trail. The single islands at the Ron Barker Hide host breeding Oystercatchers and Little Ringed Plovers. The exposed mud provides great feeding for passage waders so you may see over-summering Icelandic Black-tailed Godwits.

To round-up your day, you can take a walk around our grounds area which often has some interesting wild birds amongst the exotic captive collection. Great-spotted Woodpeckers breed near to the canoe safari and the rows of poplars are a favourite for Thrushes. Be sure to explore Wild Walk too as Willow Tits have been seen nearby. Finally, look up into the trees by the Janet Kear Hide as you will often see a Tawny Owl sat on the edge of the nest box.

At the end of your birding day, you will have earned yourself a tasty treat so head to the café overlooking Swan Lake and choose from our range of delicious cakes and hot drinks. If you need any birding books or bird care items for your garden, check out our shop before you leave for the day.

University celebrates Fastrack programme 'coming of age'

EDGE Hill University is this month celebrating the 'coming of age' of its Fastrack programme, an intensive free course designed to provide the skills to prepare participants for degree study.

Over the last 21 years approximately 3,000 adults who would not otherwise have had the opportunity to study at university have completed the course and secured a place on a degree programme at Edge Hill.

The seven-week course is ideal for people who are looking to enter higher education but lack the relevant Level 3 entry requirements.

The emphasis of the Fastrack courses is on study skills, so there are compulsory sessions on essay writing, report writing, revision and examination techniques, presentation skills, time management, action planning and course evaluation. Students also complete a subject-specific part of Fastrack.

They select the subject they hope to study at degree level and if they pass both parts of the course then they can progress to their degree course in the next academic year, with 100 per cent of those who completed the course saying they would recommend it to others looking for a route into higher education.

Job satisfaction and career progression were key factors on Edge Hill University's senior lecturer Mark Liptrott's own Fastrack journey.

He says: "After well over a decade working in a major bank I realised I was not being promoted and that those with degrees were entering the profession and accelerating past me on the progression ladder. At this point I was in my 30s and settled in what was considered a secure job but going nowhere."

Having been out of education for 15 years the decision proved daunting for Mark, but he has no regrets.

Rewarding

"It was something of a leap of faith to sign up, but the course was ideal, and I was surrounded by like-minded people who wanted to change something in their life. It gave me the skills and confidence to start a degree in Information Systems."

Mark went on to gain first-class honours and stayed on to complete a PhD, before becoming a senior lecturer and director in the department of computer science at Edge Hill.

Ann Kennedy, senior access, advice and guidance officer for Fastrack, completed the course herself 19 years ago.

She said: "It is the most rewarding programme you can ever work on. It's fast moving and intense and with around 200 students taking part each year there is a high turnover of work."

Russian virtuoso pianist returning to venue

Nikolai Demidenko

PARBOLD Douglas Music is to present the Russian virtuoso pianist, Nikolai Demidenko performing on Saturday, June 22 at Parbold Village Hall.

This will also be the introductory event to the new 2019-2020 season which will present a number of pianists at different stages of their careers.

Nikolai Demidenko has been praised in the German musical press for having "a surprising virtuosity in piano technique" that is not used vainly but which he "places at the service of the musical statement."

Russian-born pianist Nikolai studied at the famous Gnessin Music School and later at the Moscow Conservatory but was considering a career as a physicist – his other great passion - when his winning the Montreal International Piano Competition and then Moscow's International Tchaikovsky Competition set him on the path to becoming one of the authoritative interpreters of Beethoven, Chopin, Brahms, Prokofiev, Rachmaninov and Tchaikovsky.

"Sid my Husband"

Sweet 16, I met you Sid, so loved up with the love we shared.
So many laughs as the years went by, but many a tear we had to share, with so many crosses we had to bear.
But we were still standing after 56 years - nothing could break us, have no fear.
But Jesus came and took you away to his special kingdom far away.
Rest In Peace.
Love you always and forever.

I'm so sorry I fired up my old car at 5am!

LIFE ON CARS with DAVID SIMISTER www.lifeoncars.co.uk

I STILL haven't finished writing my letters of apology to the neighbours yet. I own an old car that's a bit noisy – and I had to fire it up at 5am the other morning.

It's a Reliant Scimitar GTE with a hulking great V6 at one end and some 'cherry bomb' exhausts at the other and – being fully aware of its Pete Townshend-esque vocal qualities – I tend to restrict its outings to Sunday afternoons, when everyone's either filing out of churches or heading into pubs. But on this particular occasion, following an incident where it cut out in some motorway roadworks and a subsequent 12-hour AA breakdown recovery, I had to briefly start it up so I could nurse it from the recovery truck and back into the garage. For all the poor folk who had a Ford-powered wake-up call as a result – I'm so sorry.

But what's worrying me, and a lot of other TVR, hot hatch and motorbike devotees, is something that the Department for Transport's trying out at the moment: noise-detecting numberplate-recognition cameras. I completely understand why they're being trialled, particularly because I live on a busy residential thoroughfare where lads barely beyond their GCSEs blast past at stupid 'o' clock on two-stroke bikes that sound worse than Madonna's recent Eurovision performance. Not only are these oiks thoroughly annoying everyone else, but the DfT's worried that the resultant noise levels are actually breaking the law, because the bikes have been modified illegally. Fair enough.

But what I am worried about are people like my TVR Chimaera-owning mate getting stick from the locals if said trials are a success, and there being a slow but relentless sleepwalk into any legal-but-loud vehicle being condemned because it's got an exhaust that's a bit shoutier than normal. I've already mentioned that – emergency breakdown recovery aside – I self-police the Scimitar's start-ups to avoid winding the neighbours up, but what if I want to take it out for a run to a country pub one evening? Could I, in a not-distant future, earn an ASBO simply for driving it back home again?

This isn't about defending people who ride illegally-modified motorbikes around late at night, but making sure anyone who owns an older (and slightly noisier car) isn't caught out. Same goes for anyone with a cherished Moto Guzzi in their garage or a prized Lambretta taking up residence in their living room - and don't get me started on my various mates who own old buses! All of which are machines that might not pass noise regulations designed for brand new cars, but passed every law when they were new and are owned completely legally by law-abiding taxpayers who just want to get on with their hobby.

The Department for Transport is playing a tricky game here. It's doing the right thing by going after the folk who keep everyone else up at night with stuff that isn't even legal – but I dread the day that law-abiding chaps and chap-ettes in their TVRs are vilified too.

Wright takes 5-17 as Skelmersdale make Pochin Cup semi-final

SKELMERSDALE beat Aigburth on Sunday to earn a place in the Pochin Cup Final - a much deserved win after a run of poor league performances.

After being put into bat, openers Harry Marston and Ian Girvin got Skem off to a quick start with the latter hitting successive boundaries.

He was caught soon after and was followed in the pavilion by Barry Leadbetter, caught for six.

Chris Tromp looked to continue his fine form with the bat as he immediately counter attacked.

He dispatched anything wide and the scoreboard continued to tick over at a healthy rate.

He and Marston brought up their 50 partnership before the latter was stumped for a determined 23.

After hitting another boundary, Tromp was adjudged lbw for 17.

With 15 overs to go, Jonas Smith and Phil Wright attacked, ramping up the run rate and putting pressure on the Aigburth bowlers.

The score soon passed 125, and the runs showed no signs of drying up or slowing down.

Mick Moss continued the onslaught with support from Mikey Moss and James Salleh.

Skem seemed to be on top at tea, ending their innings of 157-8 on a bowler-friendly pitch.

Mick Moss and Abbie Wright started well, but the Aigburth openers attacked successfully.

It was a relief therefore, when Wright held on to one off Moss' bowling.

The breakthrough put Skem well on top and Moss soon bowled their number 3 with an unplayable in-swinger.

Wright joined in the action as he took the scalp of Aigburth's number 4 with his first ball.

This opened the floodgates and Wright ripped through the Aigburth middle order.

Stubborn resistance from Cranny troubled Skem as Aigburth formed a mini recovery. But Wright was on hand again and took the crucial scalp.

Jonas Smith was brought on to rip through the tail.

He bowled Dutton in his first over, but his second came courtesy of Kyle Till who leapt to his right and took a tremendous grab at full stretch.

It was a moment of unadulterated brilliance that was the cherry on the cake in what would be a win to break Skem's losing drought.

Mikey Moss finished proceedings as he bowled Bandara to end Aigburth's innings on 102 all out in the 32nd over and Skem deservedly earned their place in the semi-final.

Special mention goes to Phil Wright for his figures of five for 17.

Lavelle century sets up cup win for Ormskirk

George Lavelle.

A CENTURY from George Lavelle helped Ormskirk set up a winning total against Bootle in a thrilling area group semi-final tie in the National Cup on Sunday.

Batting at number three, Lavelle scored 129 hitting six sixes in his innings before he was out lbw by Will Purser.

Lavelle was backed up by opener Tyler McGladdery who scored 52 while Gary Knight was not out on 49 as Ormskirk scored a formidable 263-3 in their 40 overs.

Bootle opener Will Hale scored a century himself (120) in the visitors' reply before he was dismissed by Nicky Caunce.

Fellow opener Michael Farrell scored 23 but number three Sam Kershaw was dismissed for one.

Vishal Tripathi scored a quick 37 off 44 balls while William Purser hit 30 off 17 balls.

But no other batsmen scored double figures as Bootle finished their innings on 252-8.

Caunce finished with figures of 3-67 in his eight overs and credit must go as well to Scott Lees and Tom Hartley who each got a wicket and each conceded just 36 runs in their eight overs.

Ormskirk will play Northern CC away in the Area Final on Sunday, June 30.

Match washed out as Formby go joint top

POOR weather once again put a dampener on proceedings in the Liverpool & District Cricket Competition last weekend with only two of our local clubs able to get a match completed after lengthy delayed starts, writes Glenn Wallworth.

In the Premier Division, Ormskirk's scheduled match at Southport & Birkdale was abandoned.

Play was only possible at Formby who were in second place in the table at the start of the day, who played hosts to New Brighton who were in third place.

Formby were put in to bat and thanks to former skipper James Seward 85, Ben Aitchison 28* and Jason Underwood 25 were able to declare their innings after 37.2 overs on 190-8.

David While 3-39 and Lois Botes 3-51 took the bulk of the wickets to fall.

New Brighton skipper Andrew Clarke led a spirited run chase with 72 scored off just 64 balls.

But time wasn't on New Brighton's side as they fell just short of their target on 182-7 off 34 overs, with Dewi Jones taking 3-42.

Both sides finished with seven points each from the draw moving Formby level at the top with Bootle, while New Brighton sit a further seven points behind.

Ormskirk are currently in seventh place in the table.

This weekend's local LDCC fixtures (1pm): Bootle v Southport & Birkdale, Colwyn Bay v Ormskirk, Lytham v Northern, Orrell Red Triangle v Formby, Birkenhead Park v Ainsdale, Fleetwood Hesketh v Rainford, Burscough v Norley Hall, Hightown St Mary's v Maghull, Liverpool v Southport Trinity

Skem and Linnets reveal friendly fixtures

SKELMERSDALE United and Burscough have revealed their pre-season fixture list for July ahead of the start of next season.

Skelmersdale open with an exciting one as they entertain Wigan Athletic under 23s on Saturday, July 6, then follow up ten days later with another tough one at home to Warrington Town on Tuesday, July 16.

After an away trip on Thursday, July 18 to St Helens Town, the culmination of three games in five days is when they are at home to AFC Wakefield on Saturday, July 20.

Two midweek games bring the pre-season fixtures to a conclusion, away to North-West Counties Division One side Lower Breck on Wednesday, July 24 and a home game against Prescot Cables on Tuesday, July 30.

The home games for Skem are planned to be staged at JMO Sports Park in Skelmersdale, the kick off times will be confirmed later on. Burscough begin with a trip to play Coppull United on Saturday, July 13, then a trip over the water on Saturday, July 20 to play Vauxhall Motors.

Like Skem, a pair of midweek games finish off The Linnets preparations at South Liverpool on Tuesday, July 23 and at Maine Road on Tuesday, July 30.

Burscough's Saturday games are set for 3pm kick-offs, the midweek matches have 7.45pm kick-offs.
